THIS IS UNEVALUATED INFORMATION

25X1 1. [redacted] observe any radar or radio antennas. There were no radios in the camp; radio programs came to the PWs by loudspeakers. The receiver for the speakers was located in the staff building of the Soviet officers immediately outside the camp. A microphone in that building was used by the Soviet officers on occasion for special announcements. The Russian programs came from Moscow, Dresden, and Breslau, and German programs from East Berlin. Neither the Voice of America nor any other American programs were heard. [redacted] there was a broadcasting station in Voronezh. 25X1

25X1 2. [redacted]

25X1 a. The Elektro Signal Company, in the neighborhood of Cominform Street, manufactured electrical devices. [redacted] it occupied an area of approximately 200 by 180 meters in which were three or four buildings, the tallest being 30 meters high, but did not know the number of employees there.

b. Near a pontoon bridge, which could hold trucks weighing up to 20 tons, was a thermal electric power plant.

c. West of this plant was the SK-2 rubber plant, to which an extension was being constructed that would be called SK-3. [redacted] said to be the third synthetic rubber plant in the USSR; one first, called SK-1, he stated, was located in Leningrad. 25X1

d. There is an assembly plant in Voronezh which manufactures Studebaker-type, three-axle trucks.

25X1 e. [redacted] an aluminum and aircraft plant, number 484, located north of the bridge in Bryansk, northwest of Voronezh.
